Before the time for the assembling of the convention it was given out that Senator Hill would be the permanent chairman. The list of alternates had also undergone complete revision, ex-Postmaster General Bissell having decided to go to Chicago as a district delegate rather than an alternate at large, even with the promise of Senator Murphy's proxy. Wm. R. Grace had also declined. At that time three names had been agreed upon for alternates-at-large, as follows: Judge Earle, State Senator Jacob A. Canter and Wm. Purcell.

Mr. Thacher's speech was freely applauded. During the call of the roll of delegates there were enthusiastic and protracted cheers when the name of Wm. C. Whitney was reached and a demonstration of almost equal fervor greeted the name of David B. Hill a few minutes later.

The contest of the Shepard delegation from Kings Courty was referred to the Credentials Committee. Other contests were from Queens, Richmond and Wayne counties.

W. Mercer, Fifth District delegate to the Chicago Convention, and a member of the Chicago Convention, and a member of the Bland Executive Committee, was asked to-day about the Republic special, charging him with disloyality to Bland and as favoring Matthews for President. Col. Mercer said: "The Republic's article is misleading and incorrect. I am emphatically and unqualifiedly for Bland's nomination, and feel certain he will be nominated at Chicago and elected President by an unprecedented majority. I telegraphed a denial of the story to the Republic last night, but it was not published."

Maj. Fred W. Fleming, who was quoted in the same article as saying that Bland would be defeated at the Chicago Convention and hominated for Governor of Missouri, in opposition to Stephens, emphatically denied the whole story, and branded it as a newspaper fake, published for the purpose of injuring Mr. Bland's candidacy. "So far as it refers to me the whole story is a fabrication," said Mr. Fleming. "The only anti-Bland peeple I know are the goldites in Kansas City and St. Louis, who are also trying to beat Lon V. Gen. Warner's speech was interrupted ontinuously by applause, especially in his ferences to the bankruptcy and distress of ite masses and to the heavy tributes that yere being levied on them by the money enders. His indictment of the administration for issuing bonds to maintain the gold standard was intensely severe and was precied with tumultuous demonstrations.

After the report on credentials was adopted without opposition, the following majority report on resolutions was presented:

"We, the Democrats of Ohio, in convention assembled, hold that the money question is the vital and paramount issue now before the people of this country, and that its early and correct settlement is necessary to the revival of business and the return of prosperity; therefore,
"Resolved, That we are unalterably op-to the revival of business and the return of prosperity; therefore, "Resolved, That we are unalterably opposed to the single gold standard, and demand an immediate return to the constitutional money of gold and silver by the restoration by this Government, independent of other nations, of the unrestricted coinage of both silver and gold into standard money at the ratio of 16 to 1, and upon the terms, of exact equality existing prior to 1873; such silver doin a be a full legal tender, equally with gold coin, for all debts and dues, public and private."

The gold men moved to strike out the unit rule instructions, but were voted down by vive voce vote amid much disorder.

J. C. Patterson of Dayton presented a minority-report covering the Monros doctrine, election of Senators by the people, Cuban question, tariff reform, personal liberty and all the usual declarations of Democratic conventions, including the reaffirmation of the National platform of 1892.

The Republican Legislature and State administration was strongly denounced. No reference to the financial question was made, and Mr. Patterson said it was left out in the interest of harmony. The minority report was signed by four members and the majority report by sixteen members and the majority report was promptly defeated.

GEORGIA CONVENTION. Silver Democrats Are in Power, but

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MACON, Ga., June 24.—Caucussing prior to the Democratic State Convention, which opens here to-morrow, has commenced in dead earnest. This morning wire pullers and logrollers are hard at work, and the skies that looked so calm and unruffled yesterday are beginning to cloud over and before night a storm may be on the way.

Of course the silver men have the thing all their way if they stick together, but here is where the trouble arises. There are radical silver men and there are conservatives. The radicals are led by Evans Howell of the Atlanta Constitution and by Congressman Crisp, who, unless are uphased it takes place, will be the next United

But why, then, the goldbugs ask, if Altsure the story was confidence in Altsure and the story was remewed here it hardly interested the politicians, and did not in the least frighten the rank and file, whose confidence in Altsure are radical silver men and there are conservatives. The radicals are led by Evans Howell of the Atlanta Constitution and by Congressman Crisp, who, unless are uphased to disorganization and certain disaster.

The stories were utterly without effect in controlling political results in Chicago. Democratic results in Chicago. D servatives. The radicals are led by Evans Howell of the Atlanta Constitution and by Congressman Crisp, who, unless ar upheaval takes place, will be the next United States Senator from Georgia.

The Radicals want to follow up the success of the silver wing at the primary elections by the show of no mercy to the "sound money" men, and the Conservatives say that harmony demands that a moderate course be adopted in everything. The United States Senatorship is the rock that divides the two silver streams, while the gold men look on in the hope that a serious split may yet give them a showing. The conservative silver men have no love for Congressman Crisp and would not object to an opportunity to ofter Gov. W. Y. Atkinson to the Legislature as a candidate for United States Senator.

The situation is sufficiently interesting to be the main topic this morning. It is said that a proposition is floating around somewhere, coming the "opulists, which offers the "Georgia Populists, to the P party, provided Tom Watson of the Populists, "Ais State."

AND LEAD THE ILLINOIS DEMO-CRATS AGAIN TO SUCCESS.

STRONG BLAND FEELING.

The Delegation Is Largely Favorable to the Missourian and He Will Fare Well at Their Hands.

Staff Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.
PEORIA, Ill., June 23.—This convention has been peculiar. It was dominated by one man and yet it was one of the most enthusiastic ever held in Illinois. The rule that absolutism is destructive of enthus-iasm was found an exception here. John P. Altgeld bestrode the convention like a Colossus, but in his service men became fervid and apostolic.

Ex-Congressman Forman offered Gov. Altgeld an hour before the convention met to bet one hundred dollars that if the Governor should make a sudden declaration in favor of the gold standard he could go before the convention and have it incorporated in the platform. This was an exaggeration of the situation here, but it was a tribute to the Altgeld supremacy in Illinois Democratic politics which was not an exaggeration. The secret of that supremacy, however, is that Altgeld is in line with party thought and opinion. If he should get out of line he would cease to be the idol he is. And if he had brought a gold standard plank into this convention his declination to run again might have been accepted as quick as he offered it.

a gold standard plank into this convention his declination to run again might have been accepted as quick as he offered it.

As it is, it cannot be accepted under any circumstances. Immediately after making what was undoubtedly the greatest speech of his career, the Governor left the Auditorium and went back to the National Hotel. There, as soon as the convention adjourned, he was surrounded by hundreds of delegates pouring into his quarters to urge upon him a reconsideration of his determination not to run again. The Governor left no doubt upon the minds of those who studied him closely that he will make the race.

"There is no doubt whatever in my mind," he said to the representative of the Post-Dispatch, "that the Democratic party is in a position to win a magnificent victury. All the conditions are ripe for it, and sil the indications point to the best use of conditions."

When urged to say positively whether he would or would not coasent to make another campaign the Governor put it, in diplomate phrase; in saving: "What makes it more perplexing for me is that the party has been so—good to me. They have made it very hard for me to refuse, although another campaign involves a clear and certain sacrifice to me."

These expressions were understood by all who were capable of understanding the situation to mean that the Governor would run. And that has been the understanding all along among the politicians. The story that the Governor was preparing to dish his supporters and followers, after organizing and leading them up to the very point of action was of goldbug origin. It was first heard at Chicago in the latter part of April when Aligeld went to Chicago to organize the silver forces against John. P. Hopkins and the gold barrel. It was started then for the purpose of robbing the silver men of the inspiration of Aligeld's leadership. Then it was stated broadly that the object of the Governor's organization of a silver campaign was to defeat Cleveland and humilist the mational administration. It was said that a

But why, then, the goldbugs ask, if Altgold had never thought of resigning, should he have made the scene of putting a renomination away from him. They accuse him of theatricals. The fact is, no man ever lived who is more tired of public life than Altgeld. His health and his fortunes are failing. His personal business require his attention. A year ago he said to an Innois Democrat, then in official employment, that his physicians had imperavely advised him to go to Carisbae and take the boths, and that he badly aceded the returning health and strangth which the waters would bring, for application to his business affairs.

would bring, for application to his business affairs.

If things had not gone as far as they had since the grouble with Cleveland in the Debs switr, and the organization of the Illinois Democracy on a silver basis in 1895, it is sure that Aligeld would never have been a candidate for re-election. He has been awept out of his calculated course by the force of the current in which he finds himself. He cannot desert the men he has invited to follow him without abandoning them to political desolation. "There are plenty of great leaders in the Illinois Democracy," said the Governor to-night, but he admitted that it is now too late to install one of them in the place he would leave Altgeld's motive in making a stage declination of a nomination which had not yet been tendered him can be explained by understanding that it is his greatest desire to avoid being suspected of a desire to retain public office. He wants it understood that he is not an office-seeker, and while he will not proclaim the fact from the house-tops, he would have it known that another candidacy involves a great deal of personal loss and sacrifice to him. He would not have been regretful if the convention to-day had taken him at his word, buy, of course, under existing political conditions in Illinois, he would have been surprised.

The Governor Has Always Been Loyal to Silver Dick. KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 24.-The Star

KANSAS CITY. Mo., June 24.—The Star prints the following:

The fact that at the Illinois State Democratic convention there was talk of instructing delegates to the National Convention to vote for Gov. Stone of Missouri for President has revived the story of two months ago, that Stone was not sincere in his support of Bland. Many of Gov. Stone's friends have been talking of Bland for Governor as though Bland were already out of the race for the Presidential nomination, but they deny 'that Stone is planning to capture the nomination himself and us using the Bland and the Missouri delegation in his own interest.

Marcy K. Brown, who is considered Gov. Stone's lieutenant in political matters in Kansas City, was asked if Stone is seeking the presidential nomination.

"I think," said he, "that Stone is sincere in his support of Bland. If he had wanted the Missouri delegation for nimself he could have had it. He could have got anything at Sedalia that he would ask for. The Missouri delegates go next week to Chicago instructed for Bland by a resolution offered by Stone."

Brown would not say whether it is the intention of the Missouri delegation to drop Bland and work for Stone, if it should develop at Chicago that Bland would not be nominated, but he declared that no new convert to silver would be allowed to have a

KIDNAPPED A SLEEPING PUP Bather Remarkable Charge Made

Against Peter Melville. Against Peter Melville.

Peter Melville is charged in a warrant issued Wednesday morning with breaking open the cellar window to John Anderson's home at 2724 Howard street Monday night and carrying off under his arm a fine, large buil pup named Jumbo, with a black spot on its right side.

Mr. Anderson says the dog was asleep at the time, otherwise it would have objected to the performance. So the warrant read that Melville, without the ald of muszie, handcuffs or chloroform, kidnapped Jumbo. He was charged with burglary and larceny.

ARCOLA'S MASONIC TEMPLE

ARCOLA, Ill., June 24.—The dedication of the new Masonic Temple occurred in this city to-day. The structure is three stories high and is said to be the finest building of the kind in Central Illinois. Delmar D. Darrah, editor of the Illinois Free Mason, of Bloomington, was master of ceremonies, and made the leading speech of the occasion. To-night a banquet will be given in the dining-room of the Temple. Arcola Lodge 268. As. F. & A. M., was organized Oct. 1, 1861. The new structure cost $15,000. Many visitors were present.

IT WILL BE HARD TO BEAT MR. BLAND AT CHICAGO.

COMBINATIONS AGAINST HIM.

His Friends Confident That They Will Avail Nothing and Give Some Gratifying Figures.

The prospects of Mr. Bland's nomination at Chicago grow brighter daily. As pointed out by the Post-Dispatch last Sunday, he will enter the convention with more in structed votes than any other candidate. The word "instructed" is used in its literal

As to the number of votes actually pledged o him, no accurate account has been kept. In this category it is known positively that Bland. And this, it is expected, will be done.

But sagacious politicians who aside from all sentiment are favorable to Mr. Bland, any they hope this will be done, as it would be just the sort of blunder on the part of the opposition as would enable them to unity all the genuine free coinage elements of the convention on Bland.

The votes of New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Michigan, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin will undoubtedly be swung in a lump to that one of the favorite sons of the free silver States, who developes the greatest strength against Mr. Bland. It seems new probable that this will be either Boles of Iowa or Matthews of Indiana. At least, that is what one of Mr. Bland's friends, who has just returned from Illinois, says.

It is probable, though, that for purposes of the property of the probable though that for purposes of the property of the property of the probable them for united action the gold people will cast all of their vote, or nearly all of it, for lot. If the two-thirds rule is not broken they can do this with perfect safety.

The first probable through the property of th It is probable, though, that for purposes of first aligning their forces and preparing them for united action the gold people will cast all of their vote, or nearly all of it, for Pattison of Pennsylvania on the first ballot. If the two-thirds rule is not broken they can do this with perfect safety.

But if that old law should be ignored on the recommendation of the committee that will deal with it, then the gold men would have to materially change their tactics to avert the nomination of Bland on the first ballot. For if they should thus flaunt defiance in the face of the convention with its 600 solid free silver votes, the latter might be so exasperated as to desert all of their favorite sons and concentrate on Mr. Bland for first choice.

It is believed that Gov. Boles can be induced to agree to this programme in the eneral it 2-zest of the cause.

Wish Gov. Matthews it is said to be different. The fact that on his advice several gold men were put on the Indiana delegation, coupled with the revelation as 30 his compromising mood made by the remark-by Hon. C. C. Matson, a close personal lend, and published in the Post-Dispatch aeveral weeks ago, is taken to meant shat he is still inclined to treat with the Eastern wing, rather than to encourage the Western and Southern elements to use their great strength in combination for the one single purpose of adopting a straight-out is to 1 platform and placing upon it a nominee whose whole public career has been devoted to that cause.

which it seems likely will be precipitated at Chicago.

Senator Tillman of South Carolina, who has complete control of his State delegation, has been wearing a Bland button at washington for a month, and though he has not expressed himself on candidates ince his Western tour a few months ago, the fact that he wears the button is considered reasonable proof of his acceptance of Bland. South Carolina's vote is 18.

In the Tennessee delegation Senator Isham Green Harris, who took the initiative among leading Democrats in official position in atimulating the silver forces to united action, will be the bellwether, and he is so set in his determination to rout the gold men from the field at Chicago that he can be realed on to go with Blackburn and Tillman. It seems, therefore, reasonable to list Rim with the Bland supporters, if the conditions heretofore described are brought and the sewells—Evan P. and Clark, father and son—will be leaders of the Georgia degation of 28, and their enthusiasm for the sewells—Evan P. and Clark, father and son—will be leaders of the Georgia degation of 28, and their enthusiasm for the sewells—Evan P. and Clark, father and son—will be leaders of the Georgia degation of 28, and their enthusiasm for the sewells—Evan P. and Clark, father and son—will be leaders of the Georgia degation of 28, and their enthusiasm for the sewells—Evan P. and Clark, father and son—will be found wanting at They will not be found wanting at They

In this category it is known positively that the 20 vetes from Kansas will be cast for him on the first ballot, as will also 8 from Nebraska. These 28 added to the 68 instructed votes from Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and New Mexico will give him 96 on the first ballot.

The enthusiasm displayed for him at the Illinois convention yesterday seems to be a guarantee that the entire 48 votes of that delegation will go to him under the unit rule, thus giving him a certain strength of 144 votes from only eight political divisions of the country—Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and New Mexico.

Reports from Austin indicate that the Texas convention is almost sure to instruct for him to-day. This will give Mr. Bland thirty more votes, making a positively assured total of 174. None of the other free coinage candidates who will be presented at Chicago can possibly overcome this lead unless the gold States, with their votes held solidly by the unit rule, should combine on some one more to their liking than Mr. Bland. And this, it is expected, will be done.

AN APPEAL MADE FOR AID.

Meeting of South St. Louis Citizens Be Held Saturday to Lay Plans to Help That Section.

The work of relieving the distress caused by the tornado is still going on, but according to those connected with the relief movement very little can be done in the future unless additional subscriptions are secured.

Walter Vrooman, Secretary of the Re-lief Committee, said Wednesday:

Walter Vrooman, Secretary of the Relief Committee, said Wednesday:

"We have got to that stage now where we can only relieve what we term emergency cases. All of the stations have been closed, though we still have a number of inspectors out. The amount raised for the relief of the sufferers was insufficient. The money has nearly all been expended. When the stations were closed $5,000 had been expended. Now, it is doubtful if $40,000 of the $230,000 raised remains in the fund.

"We find that many of those who were helped by the committee are again destitute and we are unable to relieve them a second time because we have not enough money.

"The rule we are following now is to not help any who were helped before, unless they are sick. The amount of sickness caused by exposure is something berribe and much of the money subscribed has been spent in relieving people who are suffering physically and are unable to exert themselves to repair their losses. There will be an immense amount of destitution during the winter. The Provident Associaxon & still doing good work for the sufferers on its own account. Very little money is coming in now, as the excitement seems to have died out and most people do not realize the amount of suffering that still prevails."

The merchants of South St. Louis, aided by a number of prominent citizens, have started an independent movement for the relief of the sufferers. They have issued a call for a mass meeting to be held at Schnaider's Garden next Saturday evening. The call states that the time has come not only to think of individual sufferers, but to plan concerning the resurrection of South St. Louis.

Among the names appended to the call are those of Dr. Emil Precetorius I. T.

Among the names appended to the call are those of Dr. Emil Preetorius, J. T. Donovan, David Kreyling, Judge Daniel Dillon, Charles Thuner, Father J. Head, Father S. P. Hueber, Father E. J. Shea, Phil Von Phul, James A. Quirk, Ben Westhus, Rev. W. N. Bessey, E. H. Babbit, Walter Vrooman, H. H. Wernse, Father Joseph Hessoun.

Referring to this meeting Mr. Vrooman said:

an applicant for work had really suffered from the tornado."

The Executive Committee of the East St. Louis Tornado Relief Association held a meeting at their office in the Library Building Tuesday evening. This was the first meeting held for a week. The committee transacted considerable routine business, but nothing of any special importance transpired, as another meeting is to be held Wednesday evening, in which several important matters will come up.

The total amount of relief money raised so far is, according to H. D. Sexton, Chairman of the Executive Committee, about $52,000. The expenditures previous to Tuesday night's meeting had been about $8,000, but as no report on bills had been made for several days and as large quantities of bedding, furniture, household goods, etc., have been purchased recently, it is thought that an itemized account will show a total expenditure of about $50,000. This would leave a balance of about $50,000 on hand.

In the opinion of Mr. Sexton this money will be used for permanent relief in repairing buildings or erecting homes for the cyclone sufferers. This is a matter for the committee 40 decide and action towards that end will probably be taken Wednesday.

At the meeting on Tuesday evening the committee were satisfied that St. Clair County would discontinue giving assistance after June 29. So far, about $5,000 of the county's funds have been expended by Supervisor Henry Mannie ahd he is authorized to spend $125 per day until June 29.

Adjutant General Hilton of Illinois has notified the committee that all tents that were used in East St. Louis must be returned to Springfield by June 27. The committee will see that the request is compiled with.

The records of the Executive Committee show that 146 families have been given regular assistance and are still in need of support occasionally.

Mr. Farris was hurrying to catch his train. In one hand he bore a grip, and in the other a big bundle of Bland itthographs and literature. After it was all over he remembered that a crowd of dapper young men purposely impeded his progress through the lobby. At the time he thought they were simply trying to detain him a little longer, because they liked him.

When he reached the railroad station and felt in a hip pocket for his purse, the discovery that it was gone startled him. The purse contained about 10 in cash and a return railroad ticket home.

The train was about to start and he had no time to go back to the National Hotel and help run the thieves down. He had to borrow money to get home on.

SWEET SADIE GRAY

Broke Her Ankle on the Midway When She Got So Awful Gay.

Once there lived a little maiden down of Twenty-second street, who was just as nice a "mamma" as a man might hope to meet. She was like a ray of sunlight or a bud to beauty burst, but she had an awful temper and a most uncommon thirst.

Although bred like any lady in a moral atmosphere, her affections ran to "fellers" and her palate yearned for beer. She had half a dozen "steadles." There was none in beauty's prime who could "can" so much of lager in a given length of time.

People called her Lillian Russell, though her name was Sadle Gray, for she was so plump and juicy and had such a killing way. Cleopatra wasn't in it with the shape that girl possessed, and she didn't care who knew it, judging by the way she dressed.

Once there came an eager suitor and he wooded that lovely girl, and he swore he'd give her riches that would cause her hair to curl. She believed his little story, and the way they'd hug and groan was enough to melt the inwards of a heathen god of stone.

the way they'd hug and groan was enough to meit the inwards of a heathen god of stone.

Once they went to North St. Louis to a free and easy ball, and they took no clothes' to speak of, and no modesty at all. Shrewd committees had provided beer enough to launch a boat, and poor Sadie kept on drinking till her teeth were all afloat.

Oh! she had a lovely jag on, and she didn't care a durn whether school remained in session or the earth refused to turn. All the world was like an Edm, with no sign of care or grief, and she might have posed as Eve, had that good woman given her leaf.

Soon she got so Jay and festive that she asked the band to play, and she did the ouchle-coochie in a new and novel way. Oh! she was the warmest member that the gail his every late of ladies fainted, with their elayies and her Oriental fad, for she broke one precious ankle of the only pair she had! Seven weeks in bed reclining gave her gardor time to cool, and she gave up beer forever for a class in Sunday-School.

A rousing speech for free coinage and "Silver Dick" Bland was made by Col. Harry Hill. Col. Hill was much surprised at the close of the meeting by the adoption of ringing resolutions nominating him for Lieutenant-Governor. Nothing of this intention had ben hinted to him before the resolutions were offered.

Col. Hill says he appreciates the compliment very much, but that he has never held office and does not care to occupy any sort of official position. Therefore, he is not to be considered as a candidate.

The Democrats of the Thirteenth Ward will hold a meeting in the same hall Thursday evening to organize a Bland club and arrange to go to Chicago in force.

ILLINOIS IS SAFE.

It has been wisely said that "the ina rule, the crisis develops the man or West men to meet it, and if one drops out ency. there is usually another to take his place. Under existing conditions in Illinois, however, John P. Altgeld may be truth fully said to be the indispensable man. SIXTEEN TO ONE.

It is a cunning trick of those who recog nize the growing power of the free silver movement and the need of doing something to thwart it to plead against a 16 to 1 ratio.

It is all right, we are told, to demand the restoration of silver to free coinage, white metal back in its old co-equal position with gold in our coinage system.

The Chicago convention should do this—must do it—but it should not declare for a 16 to 1 ratio. That would ignore and The esteemed Philadelphia Times gives disregard the existing commercial disprominence to an editorial from which parity between the two metals and repel those estimable persons who believe in bimetallism and the free coinage of both gold and silver, but would connect with it a readjustment of the ratio.

By the law of the land, the people have the right to pay their debts to-day, as they had before 1873, in gold and silver or in the cheaper of the two at their option. But the power to do this was fraudulently taken from them in 1873 when silver was barred from the simple equity that it be restored.

THE FIRE OF LOVE A fealous lover in Indiana has broken the record in love-sick murders. The dramatic writers in such tragedles require either the suicide of the murderer

After shooting the object of his affections he poured kerosene upon her clothing and ignited it. The girl, wrapped in flames, managed to reach the house of a neighbor, where, after hours of dreadful suffering, she died. It was evidently the purpose of Mr Wells to cast a lurid glare upon the scene. Or, perhaps, he took this method of attesting the flery ardor of his affect tion. If the National Committee does not want to encounter a sharp snub at the very outset of the proceedings at the Chicago convention, it will give heed to the Ohio lesson. The gold standard State Committee there selected a gold standard man for temporary chairman. He wisely declined. They then selected one of the best known of the free silver leaders, thus rendering it unnecessary for the free silver majority to reject the nomination on the floor.

Nobody believes that a sincere silver man becomes a sincere gold standard man in four weeks, especially if his name is Joseph B. Foraker.

The stupid falsehood of "sound money" applied to gold is a pitiful misnomer. No money is "sound" that oppresses the nation's workers.

It is not often that a 22-year-old boy falls in love with a woman old enough to be his mother, but this was Arthur Handy's fate. He killed himself for a widow who has children almost as old as he, and when they searched his corpse they found a letter to his sweetheart that one would surely think had been penned to some young girl. It reads his this:

Tuesday, June 23, 1995.—My Dear Sweetheart: These will be the last lines I will write you. I have made two miserable actempts to end my miserable life, only to know that I have diagraced my whole family and placed a stain on them forever. I am a diagrace to my family and all Tower Grove will hear of it. May the good God have mercy on my poor soul. It is all my fault. Yes, k's all my fault; no yours, dear,—all mine. May God pity me. I think, dear, you are partly to blame for deceiving me. You should not have said all those things to encourage me if you did not mean what you said. If I only had not come to see you the first day you asked me I would have never been in such a miserable fix as I am now; by:, darling, I do not wish you any harm. I hope God will always love and be good to you all the days of your life, and may He bless you forever. I can't write more, darling, so good-by forever. Yours lovingly.

The woman to whom the letter is addressed is Mrs. Luiu Clark of $24 Walnut street.

As detailed in the late editions of Tuesday's Post-Dispatch Handy, while passing by the Century building, at Ninth and Olive streets, about 8 o'clock, put a revolver to his breast and shot himself.

The wounded man was taken to the City Dispensary and while Dr. Kearney was making an examination of the wound, the young man died.

As told in the Post-Dispatch sporting extra of Monday, Handy attempted that afternoon to end his life by taking chloroform in a secluded spot in Forest Park. He was discovered soon after swallowing tha drug by Officer Dyer, sent to the City Hospital, pumped out, and was able to be discharged Tuesday about noon. Instead of going to his mother's at 1822 Tower Grove avenue, where he lived, he spent the time in inditing a letter to Mrs. Clark.

Handy, who is a carpenter, was a handsome young fellow, with good habits, and industriously worked at his trade, comfortably supporting himself and mother. The Clark woman is all of 40 years, homely in the extreme. She has three children, the youngs thein first thet the woman last Thanksgiving eve; he became infatuated with her and lavished his money on her. She played him for a sucker. Anti-Filleyites Say It Is Not Within the Byan Law.

The effort to have a change made in the call for the Republican primary election on the ground of illegality is receiving little encouragement from William F. Saunders, who, besides being one of the managers of Mayor Walbridge's campaign, is the Republican member of the Board of Election Commissioners. He says the call is legal and in perfect accord with the Ryan law, while Charles D. Comfort and other-anti-Filley leaders ray its not.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday Mr. Comfort said: "I am sure that the call is not legal, but I do not know that any action will be taken to change it. The law clearly says the delegates shall be chosen to a nominating convention and this is not to be done under the City Central Committee's call. It proposes to elect delegates in each ward to attend an intermediary convention, which will select the 106 delegates. This is not in my judgment in accordance with the intent and meaning of the Ryan law."

"This question was canvassed by the Board before the primary was called," said Commissioner Saunders, "and we are satisfied the call is within the meaning of the law. The delegates selected at the primaries will get their credentials from this office. In their convention who will get their credentials from the officers of the convention."

The Catholic vote, upon which the Ministry relied, has utterly falled to go Conservative. Quebec, which in the last election gave the Liberals a majority of only five votes, and which, on the atrength of the remedial legislation to which the Government is pledged, was expected to go strongly Conservative, has wheeled round and given Liberals from 30 to 55 majority.

In Toronto the fight was a straight one as regards the separace schools issue, and the anti-Separatists won four seats by small majorities. Joseph Marilm (Liberal), author of the bill abolishing separate schools in Manitoba, and Hugh MacDonald, and of Canada's former Premier, Sir John A. Mit Donald, are elected.

HAS CORBETT LOST HIS CUNNING?

TOM SHARKEY, THE PUGILIST SANDOW, TO MEET HIM.

BOTH MEN IN GOOD CONDITION

Corbett Is Faster, but Sharkey Is s Bulldog for Staying-The Conditions-Sporting Notes.

BAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 24.-Everything is in readiness for the four-round contest to-night between Champion Corbett and Tom Sharkey, the heavyweight of the and Tom Sharkey, the heavyweight of the Mare Island Navy Yard. While it is expected that Corbett will obtain the decision which is to be based on scientific points and on the condition of each man at the close of the contest, there is considerable difference of opinion as to whether or not the champion will be able to knock out the Marine. Corbett himself says he does not know whether he can put the sailor to sleep in four rounds, but says he will try to do so.

The betting on the knock-out proposition is 10 to 8 in favor of Sharkey. Corbett has trained carefully for two weeks in preparation for the contest, and is in splendid condition. Sharkey is in equally fine fettle. The sailor says he intends to make an aggressive fight from the first, and expects to land a few heavy blows on the champion. As Corbett has expressed his determination to put Sharkey out in four rounds if possible, the prospects are good for a lively match.

to put Sharkey out in four rounds if possible, the prospects are good for a lively match.

The contest between Corbett and Sharkey will be a peculiar one in many respects. Corbett is a long-muscled, lean fighter of great quickness of movement and agility: Sharkey, on the other hand, is of medium height, with tremendous muscular development which makes him look like Sandow. It is generally conceded by those who have seen the Marine that he can knock Corbett out if he can land a good blow on him. Corbett, however, has the advantage in reach of several inches and can get away before. Sharkey gets his huge muscless started into action.

Sharkey can stand an awful lot of punishment and in that respect resembles the old style, buildog-like fighters of old more than any man that has entered the ring in late years. He is really a wrestier or a rough-and-tumble fighter more than he is a boxer, but as the contest is for but four rounds, and the condition of the men after the fight is to be counted, he may succeed in standing out against the champion for the stipulated period. Sharkey has not been in many fights, but those that he has been in all redound to his credit as a stayer, but none of them indicated that he is the master of the art of boxing.

The measurements of the two men are in strange contrast, and when compared, look like an example of the long and the short of it.

Harding and Knower is still in an unsettled state.

The question of pace-making has caused a hitch. Harding and Laing insist on tandem pacing. Grath and Knower do not want any pacing, but after much persuasion, agreed to accept pace on single wheels.

Alex Laing, through his brother Will. agreed to a single pacing idea. Bert Harding, however, insists that the tandem shall be put in. If it is not, he will not ride. Grath, Knower and Will Laing got together this morning and talked it over. Grath at first objected to pace. He proposed that each rider agree to do his share of the donkey work. Knower seconded the motion. Laing objected.

Eventually Grath auggested single pacing and the other two accepted. Harding was not represented at the meeting. When he was told what was done he refused to ratify it.

Morrison, McGulgan's jockey, was suspended yesterday afternoon at the Fair Grounds race track as stated in the Post-Dispatch sporting extra.

His ride on Bing Binger, the favorite in a three horse race yesterday, was a startling one. The race was a mile and a quarter, and when the horses came opposite the judges' stand, Bing Binger led by a good length; but it was plain to everyone that Morrison was using his utmost strength to hold the horse back. The pull was terrific and made the horse teeter like a boy's rocking horse. The result was that the horse was so exhausted by his fight with his jockey that he finished a bad third.

The betting was allowed to stand, however, so that all who backed the favorite could do nothing but submit with the best possible grace.

THE INVARIABLE CURE OF CATARRH OF THE STOMAC

CATARRH OF NOSE AND THROAT IS CURED.

J. W. Jones, 777 Aubert Avenue: "I have had catarrh of the nose and throat all my life. I know that the Copeland physicians can cure catarrh. I doubt it there are many worse cases than mine was, and they have cured me. My nose and throat would become so clogged up that it was almost impossible to clear them. I felt blue and discouraged and a severe cough attack me. I thought I was fated. "My father,

D. O. Davies, 4023 N. Eleventh St.:

"I have known all about Dectors Copple and Thompson for years and I have flad more than good reason to feel subfidence in them. In my own family and in the immediate family of a friend of mine no less than five notable cures have been accomplished.

SILVER SWEEPS THE COUNTRY.

Thinks His Party Will Win on a Free Silver Platform

Congressman Seth W. Cobb, though a mold standard advocate, is not one to the extent that he concludes there is no hope for Democratic victory because the popular sentiment all over the country is for free silver.

"I believe," said he to a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday, "that if the election were to take plans to-morrow or any other day near by, the Democratic tickwere to take plans to-morrow or any other day near by, the Democratic ticket would win handsomely. No one can tell, however, what will take place between now and November. National elections, momentous as they are, often hinge on a small and unforeseen incident coming up suddenly on the eve of election.

"There is no doubt about it, the free silver men will have absolute power in the Chicago Convention. Therefore, it is to be taken for granted that the platform on the currency question will be diametrically opposed to the Republican platform. I do not regard the Republican ticket the strongest that could have been named, by any means, and then, too, the open revolt of so for-

Hon. Norman J. Colman, who was the first Secretary of Agriculture during President Cleveland's first term, returned Wednesday morning from Peoria, where he went with the Missouri delegation that visited the Illinois State Convention in the interest of Mr. Bland.

Gov. Colman is very enthusiastic over Mr. Bland, sprospects.

"Mr. Bland," said Gov. Colman to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "is growing stronger every day and I feel almost certain of his nomination at Chicago.

"The feeling for him at Peoria was very strong, and but for the desire of his friends to keep down ugly antagonisms, instructions for him would have been adopted. Every district south of Springfield is solid for Bland, with a sufficient following in the northern half of the State to give him the delegation under the unit rule.

"There is considerable Boies sentiment at Chicago, mainly, I suspect, because of the the delegation under the unit rule.

"There is considerable Boies sentiment at Chicago, mainly, I suspect, because of the close commercial and social relations between that city and Icwa. One-third of the delegates live at Chicago, and this, you see, gave the Boies managers just enough strength to prevent instructions for Bland without a fight. But I believe Gov. Alteged is for him, and what the Governor says in Illinois 'goes' this year. Secretary of State Hinrichsen, however, is, I believe, inclined toward Boies, though I doubt not that he will drift over to the Bland side before the Convention meets at Chicago.

"Boles is growing weaker, as Bland ges stronger. The fact that the Iowan tried to keep the party in his State from committing itself to 18 to 1 is hurting him everywhere, and especially in Illinois, where the 15 to 1 sentimen's is notably strong. The convention at Peoria fairly went wild everytime 16 to 1 was mentioned. With such a powerful feeling as this against him and all other straddlers I don't see how Gov. Boles can hope for any encouragement from Illinois."

Gov. Colman says that a poll of the delegates who went to Pagorie from South

Gov. Colman says that a poil of the lelegates who went to Peoria from South-Central Illinois on the C. & A. road showed these preferences: Bland, 76; Boles, 32 Morrison, 7; Stevenson, 6.

Strong Words From a Prominent Ken-. tucky Paper. pecial to the Post-Dispatch.

OWENSBORO, Ky., June 24.—The Owen boro Daily Messenger, the leading silver newspaper of Kentucky, come out strongly for Bland for President this morning The Messenger says editorially: "There are manifess signs of the growth of the Bland boom. Democrats all over the country are coming to realize that he is the logic of the situation. A man who has long been identified with the silver cause, who is a life-long Democrat, whose public and private life is without blemish, who is a plain man of the people, and whose nomination would satisfy silver men of all parties, so that there would be no possibility of equivocation with him in the White House, is demanded, and such a man is Bland."

Manager George W. Durant of the Bell Telephone Co. responded. He told of the trouble and labor required to get the system into St. Louis. He also promised that as soon as the wires could be gotten under ground the system would be extended and made second to none in the country.

Mayor Walbridge was then introduced, and after making a few remarks took his seat at the transmitter. He called up Manager Meany of the Long Distance relephone Co. in New York and congratulated him on his success in extending the system to St. Louis. Gen. Meany in turn congratulated St. Louis on her good fortune in securing the service.

The Mayor then held short converse with Mayor Caldwell of Cincinnati and Mayor

BANANA MEN AT WAR.

Italian Colony Divided on the Question of Sunday Work.

There is trouble among the banana men.
No Italian blood has yet been shed, but it may be. The difficulty is caused by a disagreement among the dispensers of fruit as to whether they should do business on the Sabbath day.

It is claimed by one faction that to sell bananas on Sunday is not only irreligious, but it is sure to bring bad luck.
Charlie Pamsins, a banana man who has been in the fruit business here for the past fifteen years, has a great deal to say on the subject. He claims that the majority of the Italians are opposed to selling fruit on Sunday for religious and other reasons, and he is extremely desirous that the other faction be compelled to refrain from doing business on the Sabbath day.

He says that his side is talking of holding a meeting to discuss the situation and devise some means to stop the Sunday sale of fruit.

POLICE THOUGHT OF MURDER

Melancholy Man, a Small Boy, a Big Dog and a Swift For Were in lt.

Were in it.

A tail man with long black hair and a face like the melancholy Jacques, stood on the corner of Biddle street and Broadway about 7:30 a. m. looking first to the north and then to the south, wondering which way to turn. Curled up comfortably under his right arm was a small red fon whose bright, sharp eyes were half closed as though he were eminently satisfied with his position. The animal was evidently domesticated.

While the melancholy man stood pondering there hove in sight, coming horth on Broadway, a very small boy and a very big dog.

The boy was leading the dog with a chain. The borute was as frisky as a schoolboy and every now and then he gave the chain a jest that staggered his young master.

The melancholy man did not see the dog at first, but the sharp eyes of the fox did, and instanter he began squirming for freedom. The man itshemed his grip, but little small boy and the big dog nad the his grip, but little as yank at the chain. The small boy hung on. In consequence he landed on his stomach. Then he let go' and away the big dog sailed, head and tail up, straight for the melancholy man and the fox.

The man got rattled. He tried to shift the fox to the other arm. The little red rascal shot up in the air. He landed ten feet away and took out up Biddle street like a streak of fire.

The big dog, the small boy and the melancholy man followed. The dog was barking, the boy was yelling, the man was stream of fire.

The big dog, the small boy and the melancholy man followed the fee swearing. The fox was doing nothing but running.

At Sixth street a policeman joined in the chase. He had not seen the fox and thought it must be a murder, but he couldn't even keep up with the meiancholy man.

When the lightning like procession reached seventh street the fox was nearly a block in the lead. The big dog and the small boy were going easily, but the melancholy man was in distress. It looked as though the fox had a cinch on liberty, when at Ninth street two "coons" interfered.

They saw the chase in time to get ready. One of them had a cane, with sliver trimmings on the handle.

"Soak him, Buster," yelled the other fellow, and Buster soaked as him good. But he missed him. The fox fairly fiew on up the street, and the silver-trimmed cane broke in two pieces, as it landed on the sidewalk. Buster did not proceed further with the hunt.

Buster did not proceed further with the hunt.

At Tenth street the fox still had a good lead. The dog was still going after him like he meant business, but the small boy's face was very red and his tongue was hanging out. Every third step his heels hit the ground hard and he grunted. The melancholy man was a dead one. He was puffing like a porpoise and ready to quit.

By this time the whole street back of the runners was aroused. They don't have fox chases every day on Biddle street, and there was a gang of youngsters trailing the principals, all yelling and fussing like a mob at a lynching.

At Eleventh street the fox turned north and for a minute his pursuers lost sight of him. The big dog turned the corner so close that he took a bunch of hair off his right side. Then he barked feroclously and the small boy who was dragging along a poor next knew the fox was still in sight. But the youngster couldn't go any further.

He sat down on a stoop and watched the big dog go it alone.

The melancholy man came up in minute and sat down beside him.

"—your dog," was all he said.

"Yes, sir," said the small boy.

Then they both looked up the street. The big dog was coming back. The fox wasn't, with him. The dog looked sore and tired as he came up to the other two and sat on his haunches, his tongue out a foot. The fox had certainly escaped.

"—your dog," said the melancholy man again, as he arose and limped away.

"Yes, sir," repeated the small boy, and taking hold of the big dog's chain he walked in the other direction.

MRS. WARD'S STRANGE INFATUA TION FOR AN EX-CONVICT.

Before Her by Her Indignant Son, but It Did Not Avail to Save Her.

G. Hunt, an ex-convict, Mrs. Eleanor Ward, a pretty widow with an interesting family of five children and a snug property, decided to abandon her friends and children and blast a reputation by leaving her home at 1226 Madison street and departing with Hunt. Tuesday moving vans carried away all of Mrs. Ward's furniture, Most of it was sold to second-hand dealers. Where the remainder went no one in the neighborhood knows. der went no one in the neighborhood knows. Three years ago John Ward died. He was fairly prosperous, and besides leaving his wife, Eleanor, some property there was quite a bit of life insurance due her. There was a family of five children and Mrs. Ward bravely faced the situation and undertoek the task of training the little ones.

She was highly esteemed in the neighborhood. She had a large house, and to increase her income took in boarders. All went well until three months ago, when Alexander G. Hunt was received as a boarder.

Alexander G. Hunt was received as a boarder.

When he came he gave his name as Hoven. He was of prepossessing appearance and gained favor in Mrs. Ward's eyes from the beginning.

Alvin Ward, her 18-year-old son, was also pleased with the new boarder at the start. Hunt, or Hoven, as he called himself, said he was foreman at the iron works of Christopher & Simpson at Eighth street and Park avenue and seemed to have plenty of money. The first thing that aroused Alvin's suspicions was the big stories told by the new boarder.

"No matter what the conversation was about, he seemed to know all about it," said the boy. "He had been everywhere and knew everybody. He told us so many unreasonable stories about what he had done, and some of his stories seemed so improbable that I determined to ipvestigate, I first went down to where he was employed. He was not a 'boss,' but a mere laborer at $1.50 a day.

"Then I went up to see the pastor of his church. Here I learned that his name was not Hoven, but Hunt. The preacher gave him a pretty bad reputation, and said he had married Ella Watkins, a girl living at 2622A North Nineteenth sireet, last fall, lived with her a few months, and then she was granted a divorce because he was an exconvict and had another wife living at the time.

"I could see that he already exerted a powerful influence over my mother, and I thought by showing him in his true colors the influence could be overcome.

"I told my mother what I had discovered and she asked Hunt about it. He admitted he had adopted the name of Hoven, but said he had done it to keep away from his former wife, the Watkins girl, from whom he was divorced. He denied being an exconvict, and told my mother so reasonable a story that she believed it and allowed him to remain.

"Both my sister, May, who is 16 years old, MRS. ELEANOR WARD.

convict, and told my mother so reasonable a story that she believed it and allowed him to remain.

"Both my sister, May, who is 16 years old, and myself, cordially hated and distrusted Hunt, and took no pains to conceal it. My mether frequently spoke about it, and was sorry we should feel so toward one she considered so estimable.

"Things ran along in this manner until two weeks ago when my mother told me she intended marrying Hunt. She became exceedingly angry, when we tried to dissuade her, and said we were foolish to allow ourselves to be prejudiced against him. She said she was determined to marry Mr. Hunt and we might as well accept the inevitable. I told my mother Y she married Hunt and disgraced us all, I would leave home at once, and if she persisted in marrying him I would kill him.

"I went up stairs and got my shot gun. I baded it with fine shot and intended to use it on the man, I, he would not leave. As I came down stays I saw mother and Hunt standing in the hall talking. When she saw me she crid:

"Run, Mr. Hunt; Al has a gun and will kill you."

"And you be he did run. He wanted to have me arree ed, but of course he did not go to the sta on himself. He was too big a coward. It leads he went and telephoned. When he coming it onlicemen he said. Officers,

I want that boy arrested. He attempted my life.

"I just stood still and laughed. The police knew Hunt and asked him if he was the head of the house. He first said yes, and then said he was only a boarder. The sergeant then told him if he wanted to have me arrested he could get a summons.

"When the police left we all went in the house. My mother, Hunt and myself went into the parlor. I was pretty mad, and I opened up on the man. I told him that I had been investigating him and knew that he had a wife and two children living at 307 North Second street, in Cilnton, Io. And I shook letters from his wife in his face. had been investigating him and knew that he had a wife and two children living at 307 North Second street, in Clinton, Io. And I shook letters from his wife in his face. Then I told him I had proof that he had served a term in the Missouri penitentiary for assaulting and robbing the late Capt. D. P. Slattery. I showed both him and my mother a letter from the clerk of the court at Lebanon, Mo., where he was tried on a change of venue. I told him hew he had broken up the home of a man named Conlon here in St. Louis, and afterward lived with Mrs. Conlon without being married to her and after spending her money deserted her.

"Then I told him how he had married pretty Ella Watkins by making false representations and gaining her confidence. How he failed to support her and she applied for a divorce.

"Then I told him what Lida Clark had told me about him. Lida was at our house and when she got ready to go home Hunt said he would see her home. They took a car and when they transferred downtown Hunt proposed they get a glass of soda. Lida declined, but Hunt insisted, and he steered her into a wine room at Sixth street and Lucas avenue, where he insulted her.

step for some time now. I believe he has hypotized her for she would not act shypotized her for she would not act she has done if she were right. All Hunt wants is to get a hold on her and her money.

"The neighbors talked so against them that they moved Tuesday. They sold the greater part of their household goods, and I have no idea where they intend going. My little brother was here, and told me they were going away on the railroad cars, but he did not know where. Mother came down to tell grandmother good-by, but she set in the step of the set of the se buried beneath the kitchen floor of her home at 1228 North Eighth street.

Wesley Robinson in his confession Tueaday said he forced the sponge down the Jones woman's throat that was found at the autopsy, but now he says he did not that he had said so at first because he was excited and so eager to tell all he knew that he answered yes to all the questions.

Later when he was calmer he told Chief Desmond and a Post-Dispatch reporter that he knew nothing about the sponge. He recited the facts of the killing substantially as published in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch except about the sponge when he willingly admitted the murder.

Chief Desmond sees no reason why the negro should lie about the sponge when he willingly admitted the murder.

Chief Desmond thinks an accomplice of Robinson, at the latter's request, might have gone to the house to finish the job Robinson believed he had not completed; and that the accomplice shoved the sponge down the woman's throat.

Detectives are now trying to find the accomplice.

James Pemples, the trusted friend of Robinson, cannot be found. Every police officer in the city has been instructed to look for him and arrest him on sight.

Pemples and Robinson have been friends for years, and it is known that Pemples often urged Robinson to assault the woman because of her indolence.

Robinson refused to testify in the Cor-cell.

Robinson was so badly frightened that he could only beg. "Save me, save me." He thought the crowd intended to lynch him Outside of the one man who struck Robinson, there was no demonstration of vio-
